November 2022

Have you heard about our UWEBC Boot Camps?

UWEBC Boot Camps are designed to help organizations develop and strengthen capabilities in important emerging business practices. We are partnering with experts to deliver top-notch professional learning around a specific topic, augmented with follow-up virtual sessions with our UWEBC Practice Directors to leverage UWEBC's powerful peer-to-peer collaborative learning model.

Plus! Participation in these Boot Camps is open to members and non-members alike, so that means YOU are encouraged to learn more and register now!

Here's some information about each of our three current offers:

Digital Product Management Boot Camp - December 5-7

A company's digital product – whether it be a website, app, or connected device – has become and will remain a primary way of engaging with customers. Companies have had to rethink entire business models, and Product Management is at the hub of nearly every successful digital initiative. This Boot Camp, led by a digital product management expert from the 280 Group, will provide an unparalleled opportunity to learn strategies and methods used to develop world-class digital products. Learn more and register now.

Process Mining and Intelligent Automation Boot Camp - December 12-14

Automation can be a powerful tool for mitigating the impacts of inflation, economic downturns, and/or talent shortages by creating capacity, saving money, redirecting resources to more meaningful work, and more. However, it is necessary to gain actionable insight into the most promising candidates for automation through analysis of operational processes. This hands-on Boot Camp, led by Cody Baldwin, UW-Madison's Director of the Master's in Business Analytics program, will explore the fundamentals of process mining and robotic process automation. Experience Management Boot Camp - January 9-10, 2023

Customer Experience (CX) has risen to be a top focus for all organizations, blending Customer Service and Marketing as customer journeys now blend the physical with the digital. The more we learn about how our customers' perceptions of their experiences with our brands are formed, the more we realize how important and intertwined their experiences with our teams, products, and communication channels are. This Boot Camp, led by the Qualtrics XM Institute, will teach the fundamental competencies required to build and mature your XM, CX, and EX programs. Learn more and register now.

The Secret to Agile Marketing

We know that in today's world, customers are constantly changing shopping patterns, accompanied by an explosion of customer touchpoints and fast-changing competitive and technological dynamics, which have led to an increased emphasis on Agile Marketing. During the October 18th UWEBC Marketing Peer Group meeting, business professionals gathered to discuss a roadmap for the successful integration of Agile in marketing.

Led by UWEBC's Marketing Practice Director Bill Carrier and with incredible speakers from AgileSherpas, Laughlin Constable, and The Master Lock Company, participants discussed how companies can use Agile practices to build familiarity and momentum within existing teams.

UWEBC Featured Member: Cheryl Keegan from Great Lakes Educational Loan Services, Inc.

This month we are pleased to feature Cheryl Keegan, Director of Contact Center Operations at Great Lakes Educational Loan Services, Inc.! We spoke with her and got insight into what she and her team are up to, what they like about UWEBC events, and how you can take some things she's learned and put them into practice for your company.

In her field of Contact Center Operations, Cheryl explains that the most significant trend she sees is the continued focus on digital transformation. Her company is working towards the goal of being able to have meaningful interactions with their customers that don't require them to call.
